Green coffee is a rich source of specific antioxidant called chlorogenic acid (CGA). This compound stops the absorption of glucose in the small intestine and the release of glucose from the liver into the bloodstream. As a result, the body begins to consume fats instead of carbohydrates for energy, which leads to loss of body fat. Green coffee has other positive health effects, including lowering blood pressure, stimulation of the brain and increasing mood, protect cells from the harmful effects of free radicals and support the natural defences of the body.

Green tea extract is fortified with health-promoting polyphenols that form a powerful antioxidant. This antioxidant has is much more potent than vitamins C and E. Its strong natural antioxidant action boosts brain function, prevents cardiovascular diseases, helps in preventing cancer, promotes weight loss and betters over all health life and longevity
